DETAILED ACTION

1. Applicant's submission filed on February 28, 2006 has been entered. The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.

Claims 1-8 are currently pending.

2. In the reply filed on May 24, 2004 applicant elected without traverse Group III, claims 5-8.

3. Claims 1-4 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b) as being drawn to a nonelected invention, there being no allowable generic or linking claim.

Election was made without traverse in the reply filed on May 24, 2004.

4. Claims 5-8 are examined on the merits.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

5. Claims 5-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, for the reasons set forth in the previous Office action.

All of applicant's arguments regarding this ground of rejection have been fully considered but are not persuasive. Applicant argues that the claims are enabled for the treatment of Parkinson's disease in humans using smilagenin because the disease models used show credible evidence that treatment of Parkinson's disease using smilagenin would be successful. Thus, the method of treatment claimed could be carried out without undue experimentation. However, applicant only shows results using in vitro cell cultures and using rat models. While these models may be effective for screening possible anti-Parkinson's candidates, these models are not necessarily predicative of results in human patients. The art teaches that effective treatment of Parkinson's disease in rat models does not necessarily predict successful treatment in humans due to differences between the species. The art recommends using primate models as the most clinically relevant model for predicting successful treatment in humans (see Eberling et al. Experimental Neurology (2002), vol. 178, pp. 236-242, specifically page 240, first column and Emborg; Journal of Neuroscience Methods (2004), vol. 139, pp. 121-143, specifically page 134, first column). In order to test the effectiveness of Parkinson's treatments, Eberling and Emborg indicate that non-human primates should be used as animals models after testing has been performed on rat models. Applicant does not perform any testing on humans or non-human primates; thus, a person of ordinary skill in the art would be forced to carry out further testing to determine if the smilagenin is actually able to treat Parkinson's disease in humans as claimed.

6. No claims are allowed.

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
